DAILY BRIEF

I. THE COMMUNIST BLOC

25X1

Communist China: Peiping is sending an unusually strong team to Moscow to participate in meetings with world Communist leaders next week. Headed by number-two man Liu Shao-chi, the delegation includes five other politburo members, of whom three took part in earlier negotiations with the USSR, as well as some of the regime's leading writers on Marxist theory. The composition of the Chinese delegation suggests that Peiping will make a strong effort to get acceptance of doctrinal formulations favored by the Chinese. mc

III. THE WEST

*France-Algeria: De Gaulle's 4 November address couples a stern warning to opponents of his policy of self-determination for Algeria with hints that he is prepared to take decisive measures to reach an Algerian settlement. His clear threat to dissolve parliament and call for new elections if the Debré government falls through lack of parliamentary support is a warning to the rightist opponents of his Algerian policy not to try to join forces with critics of his NATO policies if the Senate returns the proposed nuclear striking force bill to the National Assembly. He also implied that he would deal severely with any illegal moves. By emphasizing the great decline in the number of war victims and hinting that he may be considering a unilateral cessation of offensive operations in Algeria, De Gaulle is evidently trying to persuade the army that it now has achieved the military "victory" it insists on. Last year he suggested that when terrorism reached a low level, he would consider pacification complete. 720

The Algerian Provisional Government had already scheduled a plenary session in Tunis, possibly to begin this week end. In view of their growing international support and the imminence of the UN General Assembly debate on Algeria, the rebels will probably persevere in their present uncompromising stand and demand concrete evidence of French good faith.
